

Youth Protection Training

for all Scout Leaders, Adult Volunteers and Parents of Scouts

Go to: <http://scouting.org/training.aspx>

Click on Cub Scout Training under Youth Protection.

Click on Course Online and follow the training presentation.

Below the title are two featured items: 'The Guide to Safe Scouting' (Youth Protection & Adult Leadership) with 'View Online' and 'Purchase' links, and 'Cub Scout Leader Youth Protection Training' (Topics covered include the BSA's Youth Protection policies, kinds of abuse, signs of abuse, how to respond to disclosure of abuse, and proper reporting procedures). An arrow points to the 'Course Online DVD (coming soon)' link in the second item. On the right, there are sections for 'FOLLOW' (with social media icons), 'TRAINING UPDATES' (with a link to 'View the November Training Updates'), and 'QUICKLINKS' (listing various events like Philmont Leadership Challenge).

Once you complete the test at the end, you will be given the option to print your certificate.

Print and bring with you to the next Pack event and turn it into the pack trainer, Wesley Howell.
