

CEREMONIAL CAMPFIRE ASHES

We carry friendship in these ashes from other campfires, with Scouts in far off lands. May the joining of the cold dead fires with the warm leaping flames symbolize once more the unbroken chain that links scouts together throughout the world.

Ashes taken from a campfire are sprinkled into the flames of the next campfire. The scout delivering the ashes must distribute the list of the dates and locations of the past fires the ashes have passed to each Scout taking the ashes. After the ashes of this fire have cooled and stirred each Scout takes a sample to add to his next campfire. If more than one Scout adds ashes the lists are pooled, recorded and passed on.

It is tradition that only Scouts present at the ceremony carry ashes away from that campfire. These ashes have been carried by American Scouts and Scouters throughout the world and have come from campfires in:

Note: Ash lineage lists have been combined from the following sources(*) in 2009 based upon mutual campfires in the same location and date. All ashes listed prior to the event date have been added, and duplicates removed.

1776	USA	Indian Council Fires, Dakota Plains. The ashes are from the Lakota (also known by us white people as "Lakota Sioux", though they don't call themselves that). They come from "council fires" (tribal leaders) and date back to "the time before horses" which in a history book would be prior to 1519. Permission to mix the ashes was obtained provided that they did so w/ appropriate dignity.		Lakota Nation
